CAL FACULTY-STRUCK BY LIGHTNING-RAILROAD EMPLOYERS PAID OFF, &C. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] AUGUST 20, 1878.

The medical faculty, at a called meeting held last night, sustained the action of the Board of Health in quarantining the railreads, and in the determination to thoroughly cleanse and disinfect the city as prethe health of the community. To-day, under the supervision of the Board of blackened stumps remaining of the laurel cautionary measures for the protection of Health, the entire street force is at work bushes with which the slope was scattered. in the lower part of the city, cleansing the streets and alteys, and freely using disinfectants. This work will be continued from der-kegs in sizes ranging from a tack-head day to day, and with the assistance of the to a soda-biscuit, with here and there (but their own premises, the city will soon be in half a keg. There are a very few stones on good sanitary condition.

Another severe rain-storm occurred last night. The lightning struck and considerably damaged the house of a negro family in Sixth Ward. The occupants were absent at the time and escaped injury.

The Prince George delegation to the Hampton Convention left this morning for Old Point, where they will spend the night, going to Hampton to-morrow. They are understood to be mostly in favor of Mr.

The employes of the Atlantic, Mississippi and Ohio railroad, in this city, were paid off last evening for the month of July. The paymaster, Captain James B. Gregory, left this morning for Norfolk to settle with the employes on that division of the road. Comparatively speaking, very few persons in Petersburg have gone into bank-ruptcy since Congress voted to repeal that

The teachers in attendance certainly deserve great credit for the sacrifices which they made to attend this institute.

Liberty is a thriving town, doing considerable business in tobacco and produce, and is increasing rapidly. It is attracting the attention of strangers, and bids fair to become quite a town at no distant day. The crops have been good so far, and the corn crop promises to be one of the best raised for some years.

Much interest is felt in the politics of the State-but others must tell of this.

The institute is in charge of . Professor M. A. Newell, Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of Maryland, and of Professor W. B. McGilvray, principal of Leigh School, of Richmond, Va. The afternoon was devoted to the preliminary exercises of the institute, which will begin its working exercises to-morrow morning. There were teachers present this afternoon from nine counties, but owing to the fact that there is some doubt as to how far the State (when taxes are being paid in coupous) can pay teachers' salaries, &c., a large number of teachers who are anxious to attend have been kept away. It is expected that General W. H. F. Lee will open the institute with an address, and that Dr. Sears, chairman of the Peabody Committee, will address the teachers to-night.

The institute will reopen to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock, and Messrs. Newell and McGilvray will alternate in practical lectures. The afternoon sessions will be devoted to discussions by the teachers of school topics, and at night there will be public addresses. To-morrow night Pro-"Industrial Education," and on Wednes- stones. Pottsville Explosion. LATER DETAILS OF THE DISASTER-25,000 POUNDS OF POWDER AT ONE BLAST-A VIETT TO THE SCENE OF THE EXPLOSION-THE

KILLED AND WOUNDED. [Special dispatch to the Evening Bulletin.] Pottsville, August 19.-You have read in the morning papers of the terrible explosion of Dr. Lineaweaver's powder magazine, which occurred here on Saturday afternoon. Your correspondent was all over the ground yesterday, and realized for the first time what terrible force can be exerted by the consumption of 25,000 pounds of powder in one blast. In the first place, all that remains to mark the site of the house is the trench in which the foundations were laid. Around this, extending about a hundred feet on every side, is a miniature des-This and a much wider zone beyond it are thickly strewn with fragments of iron powvery rearely) a piece which may have been building were thrown much further. PATHS OF THE EXPLOSION.

The first thing that attracts the visitor's attention is a lane that looks like the track of a tornado-as, indeed, it is-cut through grove of pines to the east of the magazine. In this lane, which may be seventy-five feet wide, every tree is cut off at a height of twelve or fifteen feet, and the stumps that remain are studded all over with marks of the stones that struck them. The fallen tops, the bushes, the ground, and everything along this track, is covered with a thick coat of dust. It leads directly toward Mount Hope village, a collection of twentyfive or thirty houses-mostly frame-a suburb of Pottsville. The first house, that of James Galbraith, distant about 250 yards from the scene of the explosion, is a wreck. Doors were blown in, windows blown out, the roof shattered, the walls bulged out, the weatherboarding pierced with holes, and the whole so badly used that it will have to be taken down. Some of the broken glass was driven into the bead of Mr. Galbraith's little boy, inflicting painful though not serious wounds; but there were no other cas-ulties here. The same fate in greater or less degree visited all the houses in the neighborhood. Half a dozen or more will have to be torn down, and of the rest all will need extenbetween two negro men-Albert Jones and sive repairs. The farthest house in the village, nearly or quite half a mile from the magazine, shows a hole in the side through ball, which was fired from a pistol, took which one might thrust his head. It has awaken- the railroad track, and in the adjoining ed a new interest in both teachers and citi- fields. The course of this wall is marked Mr. H. R. Stevens: as distinct, as that of the east wall.

To the westward there was comparatively little damage done, though stones were thrown as far as Bull's Head, a mile away, and some reports say much farther. Laffin & Rand's powder house, near by, was badly shattered, and the breaker and outbuildings of the Gate-Vein colliery will need extensive repairs, but there were no other structures on that side.

THE CASUALTIES AT THE PIC-NIC. Go down the northern slope of the hill, across a small stream, through a grove of pines, which look as if a heavy cannonade had mowed their tops and shorn their limbs, over another hill nearly as high as the first, where few traces of devastation are seen, across another rivulet, and you come to the fatal pic-nic ground, half a mile, at least, from the magazine, in a peaceful little valtey, which no missile could reach unless it dropped from a great height. But it was just in range of the heavier stones of the north wall. Had the merry-makers been nearer the powder-house they would have been safer, for there is a neutral zone, in The arrangements are in charge Gallighan and Richard Vaughan were kill-

PUBLIC OPINION. The powder-house stood for thirteen years, and nobody saw much danger in it. Great care was used in handling its fiery contents. There was no chance for spontaneous combustion, none for communicated fire, and very little for incendiarism. It was closed with a heavy door, and the only apertures were one or two small ventilators near the roof. Nobody dare light a match or smoke a cigar in or about it, and no workmen were kept there longer than was absolutely necessary. It seemed impregnable to anything but a stroke of lightning, and it is said that this is the first powdermagazine on record that was ever struck by lightning. Now that it is gone, however, people are very much moved and excited about it. They wonder how they could have permitted so dangerous a neighbor to stand near their dwellings all these years, forgetting that the magazine was first on the ground. They blame it as the cause of great wretchedness and misery, and talk of mulcting Dr. Lineaweaver, the agent, and the Dupont-Weldy Company, his principals, in heavy damages. They also talk, and much more sensibly, of raising a subscription in aid of the sufferers, who are deserving, for they are poor, industrious, and honest.

THE EFFECTS OF THE CONCUSSION fessor Wilson, of Washington, speaks on are to be seen far beyond the range of the glass windows were broken. Much damage was done to the windows of the court-house. ELEGANT DRESSES AT NEWPORT .- [From the Providence Journal.]-At the enter-tainment given last night by the Hon. George and Mrs. Bancroft in honor of Mrs. President Haves, the dresses of the ladies were elegant in the extreme, but there was none which attracted so much deserved attention as that worn by Mrs. Heap, wife of Captain David Porter Heap, of the United States engineer corps. It was made of heavy white silk, and ornamented with painting by hand. Around the dress were several bands of a delicate bue on which were painted roses budding in full bloom, besides most exquisite little birds. The colors blended most beautifully, the whole making a charming, and, at the same time, very rare picture. The painting itself was the work of the lady's busband, Captain Heap, who is quite an artist, and it occupled three days of his time.

VEGETINE.

WEGETINE.

Into its composition the medicinal virtues of a lozen or more carefully selected barks, roots, and erbs enter; and all of these juices are so strongly concentrated, and in a state of such perfect harmo ny and solution that their combined action is always uniform, palatable, and pleasant to the most delicate and refined taste. It should be said, also, that VEGE-TINE contains no mineral of any sort, and no opium, morphine, nor anything else of a baneful narcotic nature. Whatever power for good it possesses it owes to the beneficent vegetable products which the Almighty has seen fit to place in our native woods monlous by human agency and skill. There is not so much as an atom of poison in the whole compound; nevertheless it possesses the speedy and penetrating action of the most virulent poisonnever for injury, but always and eternally for good. VEGETINE works in all directions, and still it is not claimed of it that it is a "cure-all." Far from it. It to Vicksburg. will cure, however, all diseases; and there are many which proceed from nearly one and the same cause. You have doubtless seen many kinds of fruit growthat this was the result of various graftings, and you did not marvel because there was only one root to the whole. By destroying the root you could have destroyed all its products. It matters not whether this be of one or engrafted in many forms. To accomplish so direct a result it must necessarily possess more than a single mode of action; and such is the case. We may say, then, that VEGETINE ACTS IN FOUR WAYS.

Witness spoke of his visit to Washington on the 15th of January, as agent for Governor Nicholls, to secure non-interference by Government troops with the State government. If armed attacks had been made on Nicholls's government they would have been repelled. Witness submitted the following letter from Senator Lamar to Representative Ellis:

Pastor of Eggleston Square M. E. church.

Washington, February 20, 1877.—My Dear Ellis: I have just learned from unquestionable authority, which I will give if you wish it, that Foster said to a gentle-man, informant—that the speech here. questionable authority, which I will give if you wish it, that Foster said to a gentleman-my informant-that the speech he made to-day which so significantly but indirectly hints at Haves's southern policy, that he made it after consultation with Mr. Matthews (Mr. Hayes's brother-inlaw), and Mr. Matthews told him and urged him to say squarely that Mr. Hayes would have nothing to do or say to Packard. Foster said he would, but said he was afraid to take too much upon himself to say that; but Mr. Mat-thews reiterates his desire that Foster should say so plumply, and further said: 'If I were to speak I should say it because it is truth." Foster further said be did not see the mode by which Haves could accomplish the practical recognition of Nicholls as Governor, to which my informant replied: "Let him ask Nicholls if I withdraw the army and gunboats will you assure me you will not establish your government by bloodshed and bloody retaliation, and if Nicholls makes the pledge let him withdraw them." Now, Ellis, this is the first thing I have ever heard as coming from Hayes, directly or indirectly, that is worth acting upon by any southern man. We do not want offices, but we do want to get our States and our people free from carpet-bag government. Ought you not, if an available opportunity offers, to serve your people, to spring forward at once and see if you can't free your State? I think you should at once see Mr. Stanley Matthews, and ask him if Governor Haves will give you some assurance that he will not maintain Packard in his dominion of your people. Your friend,

L. Q. C. LAMAR. Hon. John Ellis, Representative of Louisiana. Witness continued: Mr. Ellis proposed a conference in the room of the Finance Committee of the Senate, and there were pressent Messrs. Matthews, Dennison, Sherman, Foster, and myself. I showed them the guarantees which the Nichells government were willing to make. Sherman expressed anxiety about the United States Senate, and remarked that if the Nicholls government were at once recognized two Democratic senators would also have to be recognized. It was finally agreed to call on Grant and urge him to remove the troops, as such request would do away with his expressed fears of doing anything to embarrass his successor's policy. As I was in the minority in that conference, it being four to one, I suggested a conference in the evening, when the other parties, representing the Democratic side could present. It was held in Mr. Evarts's room, but he was not present. There were present at it Messrs. Sherman, Garfield, Foster, Dennison, Matthews, Ellis, Levy, Watterson, and myself. We discussed the whole condition of affairs. At this stage of the proceedings an adjournment was taken until to-morrow.
